1. What library holdings already exist in relevant subject categories, including supporting collections from HELIN. How much money is now allocated in the program area?

Library holdings already exist in relevant subject categories. While the monographic collection is fairly dated, the journal literature is abundant and up to date. No money is allocated to this program, but rather to associated programs such as Psychology and Pharmacy.

URI has the essential journals noted in the Faculty Questionnaire.

No new resources are required to support this course.

4. What information mastery sessions will be required for the students?

While students can always benefit from mastery sessions, at the Master's research level, it is most likely that a personal consultation with the subject expert in the area in question would be the best avenue.

5. What is the approximate cost to acquire the materials necessary? Which of these will be continuing costs?

No additional materials are necessary to support this course.
