Four years have come and gone. Most graduates' immediate reactions were ones of happiness. All of the hard work was over with. No more reading assignments, term papers, or final exams. This happiness was lessened with the realization of what graduation really meant.

Many of the close friends we associated with day in and day out are now scattered across the country. Our seats in the classrooms, the Rams Den and the Pub are now occupied by freshmen. And now the class of 1980 must be satisfied with fond memories. These memories are what Renaissance 1980 is all about.

Looking back it is easy to see how many things have changed. Coming to URI, intellectual growth would seem to be the desired result. But college life is more than just academics. For most students, intellectual growth was overshadowed by personal growth. The many experiences of a college education and college life had helped to form their personalities. Even the University has grown during our stay. We've seen new buildings constructed, new programs established and even a new college formed. In this year's edition of Renaissance we have tried to relive the many facets of this growth process.

The 1979-1980 school year was not one to write home about. But unfortunately this is not to say that there wasn't anything to write about. The university has been plagued by faculty strikes, sexual harassment issues and budget woes. If URI is to continue to grow it needs the state, it's students and it's alumnus. You should not write off URI as a thing of the past because you have graduated. URI has become a part of you and will always reflect on you.

Producing a yearbook of this size is not an easy job. I would like to extend my deepest thanks to the Renaissance 1980 staff. Out of a potential work force of over 9,000 undergraduates, they are the ones who came forward with their time, energy and ideas to make Renaissance 1980 a reality.

Being a yearbook editor sure does keep you busy. It takes sacrifices such as sleep, social life and grade point averages to get the job done. How else can a person have the unique experience of being evicted from his office due to building renovations, days before a deadline, and during exam week no less! Putting a book this size together is somewhat like pulling an all-nighter to finish a 10 page term paper. But try to consider those agonizing hours drawn out over a 10 month period. After seeing a quality finished product all of the skipped classes, long days and sleepless nights were worth it.

Larry Ginsberg and Lee Greenwald did a great job handling their multitude of responsibilities in the photography department. Whether trying to coax a stubborn photographer to take a less than desirable assignment, photographing the same assignment themselves, or spending hours in the darkroom Larry and Lee managed to come through with flying colors. This dynamic duo deserves credit for a system which kept track of 20 photographers and organized literally thousands of photos.

Walter Koerting, as Business Manager, handled all of our bills, contracts and other related matters. Walter didn't seem to be satisfied with just those duties though. He took many fine photographs, contributed ideas and could be counted on to do just about any other job that needed to be done.

Literary Editor Nancy Kutcher came through with many good pieces of literary work. Her ability to organize a staff of writers was a great asset to Renaissance 1980. Nancy also proved to be invaluable just by being there to talk to when a depressed editor needed consoling.

A wealth of experience in the area of student activities made James Rosenfield a natural for the position of Activities Co-Editor. James seemed to really enjoy work. This trait led to his decision to organize The Arts section of Renaissance 1980, as well as his share of work in the Activities section.

Terri Pagione performed well in her duties of Activities Co-Editor. She designed a great graphic theme for the activities section, as well as taking many of the photographs. Terri turned out to be a valuable asset throughout the production of the entire book. She took photographs, did layouts, and many of the other odd jobs involved with Renaissance 1980.

Sports Editor Larry Fitzgerald brought a wealth of photographic knowledge with him to his position. Larry got a late start, but managed to organize most of the sport photos and recruit writers for sports copy before having to go home for the summer.

Senior Section Coordinator William E. Byrnes proved to be a real lifesaver during the summer. Without Web's help the last few sections of the book, including the lengthy senior section, would have taken forever to finish.

Advisors Sharon Bosack and Roger Conway were also there when needed. Roger proved to be a goldmine of information where printing and legal matters were involved. Sharon's experience with yearbooks came in handy. She was a big help with her typing, suggestions and constant encouragement.

Some of the many others at URI whose help was greatly appreciated include: Ginny Nye, Irene Nelson, Diane Manchester, Chris Rigney, Mel Murphy, Karen McDougall, Jim Norman, Fran Danowski, Bill Bowers, The Information Desk Staff and the Cigar. I would also like to thank the many others who offered help throughout the year.

John DeWaele and Gary Ellet of T. D. Brown Studios deserve much credit for the many fine portraits and candid photos they took during the course of the year. John deserves special thanks for bending over backwards to take care of any photography related problems.

Barry Woolf of Josten's/American Yearbook Company has once again helped to deliver a quality yearbook at URI. Barry's ideas and suggestions were valuable throughout the book.

To all of my friends I owe a big thank you for trying to help me keep my sanity for the last 10 months, although I am not sure if they succeeded.

I definitely owe a word of thanks to my parents and family. Their love and encouragement helped me make it through the worst times when I was surrounded with work. They also deserve a special award for putting up with me for the last 10 months. Lastly, I would like to congratulate my fellow members of the class of 1980. And wish them the best of luck in whatever they do.
