

S. Johnson

REGISTRATION

One thing in this world I can't stand. Lines. Two nights ago, I went to see a movie. Had to stand in line. Before that I went to the bank. Again, in line. As my Italian grandmother says, "Siempre en ligna" — always in line.

Been through four years of college and I've spent more time complaining than hours put in for homework. But I have learned something.

I am a master at standing in line. For three meals a day at the URI dining halls, countless times at the campus bank and bookstore.

Most of my expertise comes from waiting to gain entry to the Pub; long lines outside are just a taste of the confusion at the bar.

I propose a toast —; to the degree I'll be standing in line for on May 30th.

aar

S. Johnson

B. Murray

A. Lisi

The teacher must throw his whole force into the tendency of the taught. Without real sympathy we can never teach well. Do not try to disturb the faith of any man. If you can, give him something better, but do not destroy what he has. The only true teacher is he who can convert himself, as it were, into a thousand persons at a moment's notice. The true teacher is he who can immediately come down to the level of the student and transfer his soul to the student's soul and see through and understand through his mind. Such a teacher can really teach and none else.

Swami Vivekananda,
from his book
Education

A. Lisi

S. Johnson

A. Lisi

Sewing Class, 1910, Library Archives

S. Johnson

