2019

College of Nursing Spring 2019 Newsletter

URI College of Nursing

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.uri.edu/nursing_pubs

Recommended Citation

https://digitalcommons.uri.edu/nursing_pubs/2
ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

Faculty Honor
URI Professor Inducted as Fellow in American Academy of Nursing
Associate Professor Deb Erickson-Owens, Ph.D., C.N.M., R.N., FAAN, was selected as a fellow in the American Academy of Nursing at honor bestowed upon only about 2,400 nursing leaders in education, management, practice, and research. Erickson-Owens was recognized for her outstanding contributions directed at improving maternal/child health nationally and internationally. She made pioneering contributions in the area of cord-clamping at the time of birth, influencing practice, research, policy, and education beyond the classroom setting.

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLADES/RESEARCH

ACCOLA
Students from all three colleges in the Academic Health Collaborative traveled to Jamaica during J-Term this year to work with children in Mustard Seed, a Jamaican organization that serves children and adults with disabilities.

Nursing students Karissa McGrane, Alex Ladas, and Dillion, Rosemarie Norton, Kaitlyn Riley, Charlotte Wojcik, Amber Guzman, and Moulikatou Velazquez.

College Welcomes Nursing Students at White Coat Ceremony

Dean Barbara Wolfe and members of the College of Nursing faculty welcomed dozens of new students to the nursing ranks during a White Coat Ceremony at the start of the semester. The students walked across the stage to receive their white lab coats before receiving a pledge to uphold the ethics and principles of the nursing profession.

Students from all three colleges in the Academic Health Collaborative traveled to Jamaica during J-Term this year to work with children in Mustard Seed, a Jamaican organization that serves children and adults with disabilities.

College of Nursing students made a big difference in the lives of people in the Dominican Republic. During a 10-day trip to the Caribbean nation this year.

As part of the annual trip with the Transcultural Nursing Society, students joined Clinical Associate Professor Patricia Stout in seeing patients at a clinic in the town of El Cercado, engaging with clients at an adult day care, and educating the public on women's health, infectious diseases, hypertension, and diabetes during a health fair they hosted.

Students involved in the trip included: Emily DiGilio, Rosemaria Norton, Kaitlyn Riley, Charlotte Wojcik, Amber Guzman, and Moulikatou Velazquez.

College Welcomes Nursing Students at White Coat Ceremony

Dean Barbara Wolfe and members of the College of Nursing faculty welcomed dozens of new students to the nursing ranks during a White Coat Ceremony at the start of the semester. The students walked across the stage to receive their white lab coats before receiving a pledge to uphold the ethics and principles of the nursing profession.

Students from all three colleges in the Academic Health Collaborative traveled to Jamaica during J-Term this year to work with children in Mustard Seed, a Jamaican organization that serves children and adults with disabilities.

College of Nursing students made a big difference in the lives of people in the Dominican Republic. During a 10-day trip to the Caribbean nation this year.

As part of the annual trip with the Transcultural Nursing Society, students joined Clinical Associate Professor Patricia Stout in seeing patients at a clinic in the town of El Cercado, engaging with clients at an adult day care, and educating the public on women's health, infectious diseases, hypertension, and diabetes during a health fair they hosted.

Students involved in the trip included: Emily DiGilio, Rosemaria Norton, Kaitlyn Riley, Charlotte Wojcik, Amber Guzman, and Moulikatou Velazquez.

College Welcomes Nursing Students at White Coat Ceremony

Dean Barbara Wolfe and members of the College of Nursing faculty welcomed dozens of new students to the nursing ranks during a White Coat Ceremony at the start of the semester. The students walked across the stage to receive their white lab coats before receiving a pledge to uphold the ethics and principles of the nursing profession.

Students from all three colleges in the Academic Health Collaborative traveled to Jamaica during J-Term this year to work with children in Mustard Seed, a Jamaican organization that serves children and adults with disabilities.

College of Nursing students made a big difference in the lives of people in the Dominican Republic. During a 10-day trip to the Caribbean nation this year.

As part of the annual trip with the Transcultural Nursing Society, students joined Clinical Associate Professor Patricia Stout in seeing patients at a clinic in the town of El Cercado, engaging with clients at an adult day care, and educating the public on women's health, infectious diseases, hypertension, and diabetes during a health fair they hosted.

Students involved in the trip included: Emily DiGilio, Rosemaria Norton, Kaitlyn Riley, Charlotte Wojcik, Amber Guzman, and Moulikatou Velazquez.