March 15, 1984

TO: Senator
FROM: ADC
RE: Arts Amendments Bill Attached

Attached is a bill of technical amendments that Senator Stafford may place on the consent calendar tomorrow (Friday). The issues in the bill are all non-controversial and have staff agreement.

The one piece of substance is the National Arts Medal which Frank Hodsoll spoke to you about. You told him you would support the Medal but would not take any lead role on it.

This bill (with Medal included) has come over from the House and Stafford may place it on the calendar on Friday. He will insert a statement with the bill and I have drafted a short statement that you could put in to accompany it.

The Indian Arts issue at the end of the bill will simplify something of concern to the Interior Committee. It does not concern the Arts and Humanities Endowments and does not involve any funds.

The bill and statement are attached. Copies will be in office.

Statement by Senator Pell in Support of H.R. 2751

I want to express my support for H.R. 2751, known as the National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities Act Amendments of 1983. As the original sponsor of the legislation that established the twin Endowments in 1965, I have had a long and happy relationship with these agencies for almost twenty years and have particularly enjoyed working with my colleague Senator Stafford who now chairs the Subcommittee on Education, Arts and Humanities.

H.R. 2751 makes a number of technical changes in the Museum Services Act of 1976 and the National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities Act of 1965. Though the Institute of Museum Services was transferred to its current independent status alongside the Arts and Humanities Endowments by action of the Appropriations Committees in 1982 and 1983, the authorizing legislation was not updated until now. The Institute now occupies an appropriate position as the third jewel in the crown of Federal arts support programs. It is especially gratifying to me to note that the Institute has a budget of $20.1 million for this fiscal year which is almost double the amount it had the previous year. Our nation's museums will be able to use these funds to continue serving their audience as effectively as possible. I am also pleased that the Institute is initiating a program of grants for museum conservation projects. This important new direction is being taken thanks to the superlative efforts of Congressman Sid Yates who had done as much as anyone in advancing Federal support for culture in our country.

This legislation also contains a technical amendment that will raise the authorized ceilings for fiscal year 1984 so that these figures more closely conform to the amounts that were actually appropriated earlier this year.

Perhaps the most important section of this legislation establishes a National Medal of Arts that will be awarded from time to time by the President to artists or patrons who have contributed in exemplary ways to the arts in the United States. This medal is in no way meant to detract from the current Kennedy Center Honors which are presented to performing artists in an annual ceremony at the Kennedy Center. The National Council on the Arts will make recommendations to the President as to recipients for the new National Medal of Arts and it is expected that corporate entities as well as individuals will be considered for this new award.

It is a pleasure for me to join with my colleague from Vermont, Senator Stafford, in urging the adoption of this bill.
