all know, a major cause of our Nation's current economic difficulties is the continued importation of expensive foreign oil. One of the primary uses of this oil is in the transportation sector. In fact, meeting the daily fuel requirements of the vehicles of the American people takes up a large portion of not only the imported oil but an increasingly large amount of our domestically produced oil. The threat posed to our Nation by continued reliance on foreign energy supplies is potentially devastating. On a day-to-day basis, the dependence weakens us economically and our national security is put at risk by the threat of an oil cutoff. Clearly, it is important that we take steps now to reduce the amount of oil used in the transportation sector of the economy, particularly in light of the possibility of a world oil shortage in the coming months if the war between Iran and Iraq continues. There is no simple, single solution to this problem.

The legislation I am today introducing on behalf of myself and Senator KASSEBAUM is designed to make possible the use of methane in the transportation sector which could help bolster our economy. Our bill, the Methane Transportation Research and Development and Demonstration Act of 1980, offers our Nation the opportunity to utilize a fuel which has a variety of benefits when compared to other transportation fuels now in use or under consideration by private companies and the Federal Government.

Natural gas, which is composed of 95 percent methane, is our country's most abundant source of this domestically produced fuel. As indicated in the bill, methane is also derived from such domestic sources as coal gas, Devonian shale, tight sands, geopressured zones, coal seams, and such renewable resources as marine and land biomass, peat, and organic and municipal wastes.

Of importance, methane has the potential for reducing the cost of transportation fuel to the consumer. The rate of return on this small investment would be great. Presently, methane costs the equivalent of 65 cents per gallon of gasoline.

Another major advantage of methane-powered vehicles is based on environmental considerations. Generally, all types of emissions associated with methane-powered vehicles are of lower levels than those associated with vehicles powered with other fossil fuels. On a total energy cycle basis (from energy source to end use) all types of emissions associated with methane-powered vehicles are lower than those from vehicles powered by gasoline from oil, coal, or shale.

Currently there are less than 20,000 methane-powered vehicles operating in the United States. This is another example of where our country lags behind other nations. By contrast, an estimated 400,000 motor vehicles burning gaseous fuels are in use worldwide. There are over 250,000 natural gas powered vehicles in Italy alone and New Zealand has recently announced a program to convert 150,000 vehicles to natural gas by 1983. Even the Soviet Union intends to convert most of the buses in the city of Moscow to methane. Clearly, methane has been proven to be a viable and economic transportation fuel for vehicles.

The rapid development of this alternative fuel technology in the United States, however, is being hindered by economic and institutional barriers founded on a data base of outdated economic and gas supply studies and restrictive laws which do not apply to the modern methane transportation situation. This measure, Mr. President, calls for funds to support advanced and accelerated research, development, and demonstration of methane use in Government, commercial, and commuter vehicle fleets as well as for various agricultural vehicular uses.

This legislation will help reduce the need for continued importation of foreign oil, will promote energy independence for the United States, and will help cut air pollution in major metropolitan areas. It can also accelerate development of unconventional sources of natural gas. All this can be done while providing vehicle operators with a cheaper and cleaner domestically obtained fuel than that which is currently in use.

Mr. President, I urge the adoption of this measure.

Mr. FORD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD an explanation of the amendments.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

EXPLANATION OF AMENDMENTS

Amendment No. 1: This amendment will revise the definition of private entities which appears in the bill, to include individuals and non-incorporated persons, except for those entities which are public entities".

Amendment No. 2: This amendment requires the Secretary of Energy to designate the organization within DOE that will be the lead agency to carry out the Secretary's duties under the Act before February 1, 1981, rather than October 1, 1981.

Amendment No. 3, 9, 10, and 11: These amendments make conforming changes to make the term "methane transmission, storage and dispensing facilities" consistent throughout the bill.

Amendment No. 4: This amendment requires that the Secretary determines whether or not participants in each demonstration project have been able to make satisfactory arrangements to obtain adequate supplies of methane for use in the project. The bill presently requires that the Secretary assures that there will be adequate continuous supplies of methane available.

Amendment No. 5: Technical change.

Amendment No. 6: This amendment requires that the research and development work on handling, storage and distribution of methane will be for vehicular fuel purposes.

Amendment No. 7: This amendment requires that the Secretary perform research and development on new sources of methane pursuant to other authorizations, rather than through this authority, which does not directly deal with the subject.

Amendment No. 8: This amendment restricts the Secretary's work to overcoming institutional barriers, and just to the barriers that are inhibiting the use of methane as a vehicular fuel.

Amendment No. 9: This amendment provides that the Secretary will submit all reports to this Act to the Senate and House for referral to the appropriate committees.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, all the committee amendments, including the unprinted amendments, are considered and agreed to en bloc.

The question is on the engrossment of the amendments and the third reading of the bill.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed and the bill to be read the third time.

The bill was read a third time, and passed.

Mr. FORD. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

RELIEF OF TWO MINING CLAIMANTS

Mr. ROBERT C. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of Calendar No. 1136, H.R. 7698.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill will be stated by title.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 7698) for the relief of two mining claimants.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. BAKER. There is no objection on this side.

There being no objection, the bill was considered, ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

• Mr. SCHWEIKER. Mr. President, I inquire of my distinguished colleague from Rhode Island whether the National Endowments for the Arts and the Humanities plan to redefine certain requirements for eligibility in a way that would exclude science museums from participating in their funding programs. I am particularly concerned about the eligibility of these museums for challenge grants. Pennsylvania boasts of some of the finest museums in the country. Her science museums have unparalleled collections in natural history, archaeology and anthropology, as well as important living collections of plants and animals. These institutions play an integral part in the cultural vitality of the State and of the Nation. Exclusion of science museums from participation in the challenge grant programs, which have done so much to stimulate community support and guarantee cultural institutions some measure of financial security, would be shortsighted and unfair.

• Mr. PELL. I assure my colleague from Pennsylvania that I share his concern that challenge grants be widely available to all qualified cultural institutions, including science museums. In the report that accompanied S. 1386, the bill reauthorizing both endowments, the committee was explicit that the endowments continue the funding of science museums and urged the widest possible eligibility of science museums of all kinds for challenge grants and project support. Both the Arts and the Humanities endowments have made excellent grants to science museums and I am confident that Mr. Biddle and Mr. Duffey, the chairman of the two agencies, will continue to fund them. The Senator is correct when he notes the positive effect of the challenge grants on private giving to our Nation's cultural institutions and I appreciate and share his concern that the benefits of these grants be widely available.

• Mr. RIBICOFF. Mr. President, I note that the bill would require the Director of the Institute of Museum Services to report directly to the Secretary of Education on museum activities. It would also give the Director specific authority over the Institute's grant making procedures. In view of the importance of improving the efficiency and management of all activities transferred to the Department under the Organization Act, I want to emphasize that nothing in this section should interfere with the application of sound management principles at the new Department or would undermine the efforts of the Department to streamline its organization.

All of the Department's programmatic functions have been organized under various assistant secretaries. The bill does not preclude the Department from requiring IMS to report, for administrative purposes, to the appropriate assistant secretary on all operational matters relating to museum activities, so long as the Director has a direct reporting line to the Secretary on matters of museum policy. Similarly, the Director's authority over grant-making procedures does not mean that the Institute's grants procedures are free from Secretarial supervision or from the Department's general policies and regulations.
