"SAFE ZONE" CAMPAIGN

CELEBRATION

Sponsored by the Committee to

Eliminate Homophobia and Heterosexism

Tuesday, April 13, 1993

Biological Sciences Auditorium, URI

4:00-5:30 p.m.

Pink Triangles: A film exploring the ramifications of homophobia, followed by a panel and audience discussion.

7:30 p.m.

Gay Gaiety: An evening of Lesbian and Gay Comedy and Entertainment, emceed by Phillipe and Jorge of the Providence Phoenix.

Both events are free and open to the public, and wheelchair accessible.

The "URI Safe Zone" symbol is meant to convey a message to lesbians, gays, and bisexuals (as well as the larger campus community) at the University of Rhode Island. The intended message is that the person displaying this symbol is one who will be non-judgmental, understanding, and trustworthy should anyone need help, advice, or just someone to talk to.

Disability assistance is available upon 72 hours advance notice. Please call 792-2442.
