The Program of Assistance to State Arts Agencies

Fifty States, the District of Columbia, the Virgin Islands, Guam and Puerto Rico are receiving funds from the National Endowment for the Arts which will enable them to study their cultural resources and establish an official State arts agency or develop programs, facilities and services at the community level.

Eleven States, Guam and the Virgin Islands have received non-matching study grants of up to $25,000; eleven States, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico are receiving up to $50,000 program grants on a 50-50 matching basis; and 28 States have received study grants which will be followed by a matching program grant of approximately $12,500 before the end of fiscal 1967.

The National Foundation on the Arts and the Humanities Act of 1965 was specifically designed to encourage States to furnish "adequate programs, facilities and services in the arts to all the people and communities in each of the several States," authorizes $2.75 million annually for the program, requiring that funds be matched and equally allotted among the States and special jurisdictions. Congress appropriated $2 million for the program in fiscal 1967, the only year in which non-matching study grants are available.

Following is a breakdown of the program of assistance to State arts agencies:

An extraordinary variety of programs, developed and implemented by State arts agencies, is currently providing technical assistance, tours, exhibits and special educational services in the arts to individuals and organizations throughout the Nation.

Since the National Endowment for the Arts was created--

State agencies are functioning in every State and jurisdiction of the United States as the result of legislation or executive action. Thirty-three States, the District of Columbia and Guam have established official agencies since 1965. Only six existed before the New York State Council on the Arts was formed in 1960 and Utah was the only one with an active program using State funds.

State agencies are generating funds to match Federal support from public and private sources. It is estimated that legislatures in more than 30 States have appropriated $5.4 million for State arts agency programming since 1965. The private support of individuals, corporations and foundations has also increased.

State agencies surveyed the cultural resources in almost all States and 39 States developed approximately 300 new arts programs which provided performances and exhibits in communities which had never had the opportunity to participate in such activities.

As a result of the program, existing new projects are stimulating new artists and new audiences. A few examples:

- In Oklahoma, a festival of resident singers, dancers, actors, writers, painters and sculptors is touring the State.
- In the District of Columbia, a national contest is developing new sculpture for recreation areas.
- In Minnesota, a special flexible graphic exhibition of city planning possibilities is encouraging small towns to examine their potential for improvement.
- In Missouri, social, civic and student groups are enjoying lectures on the history of art through a specially developed sight-sound unit.
- In Alabama, the Mobile Symphony Orchestra is touring the State for the first time.
- In Wyoming, the Jackson Hole Festival Orchestra, which once played only to visiting tourists, is performing in communities throughout the State.

The National Council on the Arts has allocated funds for the following programs:

Architecture and Allied Fields

Undergraduate Student Travel: Up to 50 grants-in-aid of $750 each for undergraduate students selected by schools of architecture, planning and landscape architecture, for research and travel during the summer before their final year of study. (Allocation: $37,500)

Design Studies for Hawaiian Islands: A matching grant to appropriate groups on the Hawaiian Islands to develop effective design techniques and means for preserving Hawaii's natural beauty in the face of ever-increasing pressures for urban and recreational development. (Allocation: $50,000)

Institute of Architecture, Planning and Design: A program to develop a plan for a national institute in these fields. (Allocation: $100,000 for a feasibility study)

Creative Writing

The Inter-American Foundation for the Arts: A program to stimulate Inter-American artistic activities in the United States and to assist American artists to translate and adapt important Latin-American writings. (Allocation: $150,000)

Drama

American Playwrights Theatre: A project to enable the production of two new plays by established playwrights by the 153 university, community and resident professional theatres included in the APT membership. (Allocation: $50,000)
