Groups Ponder Who Should Replace Cheney at Humanities Endowment

Transition fever has reached the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Since Lynne V. Cheney announced that she would step down as chairman of the endowment, scholars have been tossing around names of people who might take over the agency.

And President-elect Bill Clinton seems to be all ears when it comes to talking about reforming the endowment.

He has appointed a panel to audit the NEH and provide him with a briefing book on the agency. His transition team also requested names of potential replacements from the National Humanities Alliance, an umbrella group of scholarly organizations that was often critical of Mrs. Cheney's leadership.

The transition panel included Alexander D. Crary, a staff member of the Senate Subcommittee on Education, Arts and Humanities; Alberta Arthurs, director of arts and humanities at the Rockefeller Foundation; and Albertuc暫的概念, 找到一个合适的英文或中文词的翻译。前文语境中没有出现这个词。
