UNIVERSITY OF RHODE ISLAND FACULTY SENATE
CURRICULAR AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

Minutes of the eighth meeting of the 2015-2016 academic year

I. The meeting was called to order at 3:02 p.m. on Monday, April 25, 2016 in Library Conference Room A, Chairperson Owens presiding.

The following members were present: Professors Akanda, Brand, Chadha, Dorado, English, Ferguson, Flannery-Schroeder, Hawes, Rojas, Vaccaro, Vice Provost Beauvais, and Ms. Kristine Buss. Kathleen Torrens, Assistant Director of Online Education, and Ms. Neff, Faculty Senate Office, were also in attendance.

The following members were not present: Professor Izenstark.

II. The Minutes of Meeting #7, March 28, were not prepared at the time of the meeting.

III. GUESTS

Chairperson Owens made a motion to move the order of business to accommodate John Rooney and David Hayes from University College for Academic Success to address questions regarding the proposals for new courses, UCS 161, Applied Learning Theory in College Classes, and UCS 360, Supporting Learning in College. Mr. Hayes stated that these courses would be free electives but may be proposed for general education credit in the future.

He explained that the UCS 161 course would build upon the existing 1-credit UCS 160 course, and UCS 360 would allow for tutors to learn and apply theories and techniques to facilitate leadership, tutoring, and teaching skills. The Committee questioned whether these UCS courses should be crediting-bearing courses. Mr. Hayes explained that similar courses at other institutions were for 3 credits, and the students would be doing 3 credits worth of work. He expressed that students often come to URI with certain ideas and study practices that are substantially different from reality. These students need to learn how to work effectively through the academic rigor and develop new ways of processing, studying, and performing tasks that encourages and develops new, creative, and clarified interests.

Chairperson Owens thanked David Hayes and John Rooney for coming to the meeting. The Committee continued to have concerns about each course being for 3 credits and being taught by non-faculty staff members. Vice Provost Beauvais offered to speak with Jayne Richmond regarding the Committee’s concerns. The proposals for UCS 161, Applied Learning Theory in College Classes, and UCS 360, Supporting Learning in College were tabled until next meeting in September.
Chairperson Owens welcomed Leo Carroll, Chair of Sociology/Anthropology, who was present to discuss the proposed new Bachelor of Arts degree program in Criminology and Criminal Justice. Dr. Carroll discussed the consistent upward growth of students inquiring about a Criminology and Criminal Justice (CCJ) degree here at URI. Applications for CCJ programs have had the 2nd highest growth in the College of Arts and Sciences. Dr. Carroll shared that the department was asked by the administration to consider creating a CCJ program. He explained that the interdisciplinary nature of this program with the departments of Sociology, Political Science, Psychology, Economics, and Gender and Women’s Studies, will distribute the teaching and program needs more evenly.

In response to questions of post-graduation jobs, Dr. Carroll explained that a considerable amount of the current CCJ programs are vocationally oriented. Current URI students attain a Bachelor of Science in Sociology with a Criminology and Criminal Justice option. The CCJ would allow student to graduate with a Bachelor of Arts in Criminology and Criminal Justice, making them more marketable than those with a BS in Sociology.

Chairperson Owens thanked Professor Carroll for attending. The Committee held further discussion and approved the proposals for the Creation of the new Interdisciplinary Program in Criminology and Criminal Justice, Creation of a new CCJ Course Code, and the Creation of a Criminology and Criminal Justice major for the Bachelor of Arts program.
