Dear Ms. Salvati:

Thank you very much for your recent letter in which you inquired about sources of financial aid to support your foreign research in Ireland and England.

I know of no Federal program that will support foreign travel even though the trip may be in pursuit of academic research. Since your studies abroad will only last for a few weeks, the prospects of financial assistance are not good. The Fulbright-Hays Program, for example, will assist advanced graduate students, but for periods of 6 to 12 months of overseas research. Should you desire more information on this program, I would suggest that you write to: Fulbright-Hays Research Abroad Programs, Divisions of International Education, Department of Education, Washington, D.C. 20202.

A private foundation is probably the best place for you to contact and since I am not familiar with the programs of many individual foundations, I suggest that you study a copy of the Foundation Directory which is available in any library.

I wish you every success with your study project and hope that the travel subsidy is easily secured.

With warm regards.

Ever sincerely,

Claiborne Pell
