August 2019

Conversation with Jody Raphael about "Decriminalization of Prostitution: The Soros Effect"

Heather Brunskell-Evans
Kings College, London, heatherbrunskellevans@gmail.com

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.uri.edu/dignity
Part of the Civil Law Commons, Civil Rights and Discrimination Commons, Criminal Law Commons, Criminology Commons, Domestic and Intimate Partner Violence Commons, Entertainment, Arts, and Sports Law Commons, Gender and Sexuality Commons, Human Rights Law Commons, Inequality and Stratification Commons, Law and Gender Commons, Law and Politics Commons, Law and Society Commons, Legal Studies Commons, Public Policy Commons, and the Social Policy Commons

Recommended Citation
DOI: https://doi.org/10.23860/dignity.2019.04.03.05
Available at: https://digitalcommons.uri.edu/dignity/vol4/iss3/5https://digitalcommons.uri.edu/dignity/vol4/iss3/5

This Conversation is brought to you for free and open access by DigitalCommons@URI. It has been accepted for inclusion in Dignity: A Journal on Sexual Exploitation and Violence by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@URI. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@etal.uri.edu.
Conversation with Jody Raphael about "Decriminalization of Prostitution: The Soros Effect"

Abstract
George Soros and Open Society Foundation are supporting the decriminalization of prostitution by funding organizations around the world to advocate for this legal change. Heather Brunskill-Evans (FiLiA podcasts, London) interviews Jody Raphael, Senior Research Fellow, Schiller DuCanto & Fleck Law Center, DePaul University College of Law, Chicago, Illinois, USA, about her research on this topic and discusses her article "Decriminalization of Prostitution: The Soros Effect."

Keywords
prostitution, decriminalization, funding, Soros, Open Society Foundation, podcast, interview, conversation, feminist, violence against women

Creative Commons License
This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-No Derivative Works 4.0 License.

This conversation is available in Dignity: A Journal on Sexual Exploitation and Violence: https://digitalcommons.uri.edu/dignity/vol4/iss3/5
CONVERSATION WITH JODY RAPHAEL ABOUT “DECRIMINALIZATION OF PROSTITUTION: THE SOROS EFFECT”

Heather Brunskell-Evans
FiLiA, London

ABSTRACT
George Soros and Open Society Foundation are supporting the decriminalization of prostitution by funding organizations around the world to advocate for this legal change. Heather Brunskell-Evans (FiLiA podcasts, London) interviews Jody Raphael, Senior Research Fellow, Schiller DuCanto & Fleck Law Center, DePaul University College of Law, Chicago, Illinois, USA, about her research on this topic and discusses her article “Decriminalization of Prostitution: The Soros Effect.”

KEYWORDS
prostitution, decriminalization, funding, Soros, Open Society Foundation, podcast, interview, conversation, feminist, violence against women

Link to FiLiA Podcast
Introduction
https://filia.org.uk/podcasts/2019/7/11/filia-meets-jody-raphael

Podcast
https://digitalcommons.uri.edu/dignity/vol4/iss3/5/

Link to Article Under Discussion
https://doi.org/10.23860/dignity.2018.03.01.01
https://digitalcommons.uri.edu/dignity/vol3/iss1/1/

AUTHOR BIOGRAPHY
Heather Brunskell-Evans, Ph.D. is a social theorist whose special interest is the philosophy and politics of the gendered/sexed body. She has a special interest in the work of Michel Foucault and Andrea Dworkin. She is a trustee of FiLiA, a feminist charity where she is director of its Stop Violence against Women and Girls section. She was co-founder (2013) of Resist Porn Culture, a UK organization set up to challenge the pornography industry and the pornification of culture, originally linked to Culture Reframed, USA, and now under the auspices of FiLiA. She is the co-author and co-director of The Declaration of Women’s Sex-Based Rights (2019). She has published extensively in popular media.

FiLiA means daughter. The members of FiLiA are the daughters of the women who came before us and we fight so that our daughters may be free. FiLiA mission is to contribute to the Women’s Liberation Movement by: building sisterhood and solidarity; amplifying the voices of women; and defending women’s human rights.

RECOMMENDED CITATION
https://doi.org/10.23860/dignity.2019.04.03.05 Available at http://digitalcommons.uri.edu/dignity/vol4/iss3/5.

REFERENCES

The Declaration of Women’s Sex-Based Rights (2019)
https://www.womensdeclaration.com