The Library Impact Statement for PSA 500 Online Learning in the Science of Supply Chain Management states that students will not be conducting library research in the course, and the proposed syllabus confirms this.

In response to the question about what critical journals, monographs, and electronic resources the University Libraries must have to support the course, the response is, "The library has access and online subscriptions to the following journals: International Journal of Production Economics, International Journal of Production Research, Journal of Supply Chain Management, and Journal of Business Logistics." I confirm that the URI Libraries offers current online access to all four titles listed.

Based on my review of the Library Impact Statement and the proposed syllabus for PSA 500 Online Learning in the Science of Supply Chain Management, I conclude that the University Libraries can meet the needs of this course with no additional resources.

In my role as Subject Selector for the College of Business, I support the addition of this course.
