FACULTY SENATE

On September 28, 1978, the Faculty Senate adopted the following recommendation of the University College and General Education Committee:

- (1) Every college and every department or committee which offers undergraduate degree programs is responsible for the improvement of the communications skills of its students.
- (2) Every academic unit with direct responsibility for an undergraduate degree program shall review the communications skill portions of its program. Upon completion of this review, each unit shall:
 - (a) Prepare a written statement for distribution to its majors describing the communications skills components of the program and stating its expectations for its graduates.
 - (b) If deemed necessary, introduce new opportunities for its students to practice communicating ideas orally and in writing and to receive constructive criticism of their performance. Such opportunities may take the form of special seminars or other exercises either in connection with existing courses or not, as appropriate.
 - (c) Report its findings and/or plans to the appropriate academic dean.
- (3) Teaching units may consult with such campus resources as the Chairperson of the Department of Speech Communication, the Director of the SCRATCH program (and/or an appropriate person designated by the English Department), the Chairperson of the Department of Languages and/or the Director of the Reading Program (Dept. of Education) for the purpose of consulting on their work in communication skills.
- (4) Four years after this policy is enacted, the Senate Committee on General Education and University College shall report to the Senate, appraising the progress made in fulfilling the responsibility referred to above and making such recommendations as it deems advisable.
