For this course, students will complete assigned readings and will write a research paper. According to the Library Questionnaire, there are no required resources from the Libraries. The Libraries do hold copies of all but two of the resources (books and journal articles) listed on the syllabus. Note that for readings not held at URI, the instructor will need to provide students a copy through Sakai, or through Library e-reserves. According to the Library Questionnaire, no supplementary library resources will be required.

Based on the Libraries' New Course Proposal form and a review of the syllabus, in my role as subject selector, I conclude that the Libraries can fully support this course through existing resources.
