Assessment of:

- Suitability of existing library resources;
- New library resources required to support the program;
- Information skills education required by the students; and
- Funds needed for library materials and services.

Please include:

1. What library holdings already exist in relevant subject categories. How much money is now allocated in the subject area?

The URI Library has substantial current holdings in Linguistics and Education, both monographs and journals. The 2017-18 allocation for monographs for Languages is $6,000. The 2017-18 allocation monographs for Education is $5,000.

2. Does URI have the essential journals as noted in the Faculty Questionnaire?

There are no essential journals noted in the Faculty Questionnaire. The one recommended journal title—Chinese As A Second Language-- is not one the library subscribes to. Professor He has indicated that he will provide students with articles from this journal as needed.

3. What new resources are required to support the course (including media, electronic, or other non-print materials)?

No new library resources are required to support this course.

4. What information mastery sessions will be required for the students?

No information mastery sessions are required for the students. Should the students need assistance with the identification of materials needed for the research project for this course, the instructor may make an appointment for the class with the Public Services Department of the Library.

5. What is the approximate cost to acquire the materials necessary? Which of these will be continuing costs?

There are no new costs to the library to support this course.
