- New library resources required to support the program;
- Information skills education required by the students; and
- Funds needed for library materials and services.

Please include:

1. What library holdings already exist in relevant subject categories. How much money is now allocated in the subject area?

The University Libraries have a fairly large collection of books about Military History and about Leadership. A quick search of the catalog shows some 2300 titles about Military History. The collection is up to date, with many 2017 publications. Military Science does not have its own allocation for the purchase of monographs. Books on the relevant subjects are typically part of the allocation for History, Science, etc., as appropriate. There are adequate funds to purchase any monograph titles that might be needed for this course.

2. Does URI have the essential journals as noted in the Faculty Questionnaire?

There are no essential journals noted in the Faculty Questionnaire.

3. What new resources are required to support the course (including media, electronic, or other non-print materials)?

No other new resources are required to support the course.

4. What information mastery sessions will be required for the students?

No information mastery sessions are required for the students. Instructors may contact the Public Services Department of the Library to set up instruction sessions as needed.

5. What is the approximate cost to acquire the materials necessary? Which of these will be continuing costs?

There are no new costs to the library for the support of this course.
