B. College of Human Science and Services

1. Department of Human Development and Family Studies

Changes:

Change the number of required developmental seminars (HDF 511, 512, 513, 514) from 1 to 2.

Rationale: By requiring an additional developmental seminar that covers another period of the life-span, this requirement will deepen student knowledge of development and better meet the needs of students interested in working with families. This requirement also will stabilize enrollment in these courses.

Allow HDF 535 or HDF 530 as family studies requirement.

Rationale: In the past, HDF and MFT have shared teaching responsibility for HDF530. However, HDF 530 is no longer required by the MFT program and the HDF program is considering whether to revamp this course or drop it as a requirement. In the meantime, we are allowing HDF graduate students to take HDF 535, Families under Stress, as an alternative family studies course. We are requesting to formalize this arrangement.

Replace the comprehensive exam requirement with a portfolio requirement.

Rationale: Currently, HDF requires both a comprehensive exam and a portfolio. Our examination of similar programs suggests that most require only one, if that. We believe the portfolio requirement makes more sense for both the program and the student for four reasons: 1) HDF students already complete a thesis that incorporates much of their knowledge from the program, making the comprehensive exam somewhat redundant; 2) unlike the comprehensive exam, the portfolio provides a great opportunity for students to reflect on their personal and professional growth in the program; 3) the portfolio allows students to showcase their expertise and skill sets to potential employers; and, 4) the HDF program can use these portfolios to assess how well the program is reaching its student learning objectives.
