GREETING

Before you is placed once more,
In a book of black and gold,
Some bits of college lore
And much that is new yet old.

To you is a welcome extended
These pages fresh to peruse;
And may our labor just ended
Be something we need not excuse.

There is much we know to be faulty—
So little is up to the mark—
But we pray you not to be naughty
And say, "They did this in the dark."

The past stretches out behind us,
The future is still in store,
The GRIST with its pleasant reminders
Remains forever more.

To show our appreciation of the kind assistance given
Our Class,
we dedicate all that is worthy in this volume to our
Honorary Member,
E. Josephine Watson
