

Andrée Rathemacher <andree.rathemacher@gmail.com>

Open Access at URI: Exciting Opportunities for Faculty, Researchers, and Grad Students

Amanda Izenstark <amanda@mail.uri.edu>

Mon, Oct 7, 2013 at 9:00 AM

Reply-To: Amanda Izenstark <amanda@mail.uri.edu>

To: LIBANNOUNCE-FAC@listserv.uri.edu

Dear Faculty, Staff, and Grad Students,

You're invited to:

Open Access at URI: Exciting Opportunities for Faculty, Researchers, and Grad Students

Tuesday, October 8 at 1:00pm to 2:00pm

AND

Monday, October 21 at 10:00am to 11:00am

Carothers Library, Room 142

15 Lippitt Rd, University of Rhode Island, Kingston, RI

Open Access provides you with the opportunity to increase your readership and your scholarly impact, and also improves your access to scholarly information.

The DigitalCommons@URI is part of an international effort to increase access to scholarly articles, theses, and dissertations. Come learn about the benefits of open access for your research and how to comply with URI's Open Access policies.

Presented by:

Julia Lovett, Assistant Professor, Digital Initiatives Librarian, University Libraries

Andrée Rathemacher, Professor, Head of Acquisitions, University Libraries

Part of the University Libraries' Search Savvy Seminar series.

--

Amanda Izenstark

Associate Professor

Reference and Instructional Design Librarian

University of Rhode Island Library

(401) 874-4582

amanda@uri.edu