FEW weeks before the close of the Basketball season, candidates were called out for Baseball. Practice was held in the gymnasium until the weather became warm enough for outside work, consisting mainly in limbering up arms. It was not long, however, before the squad was out on the field, every man trying hard for a position on the team. The material looked good and it seemed that we should have a good team.

After about two weeks of good hard practice, the team journeyed to Providence where they met Brown in the first game for both institutions. Our pitchers were not equal to the occasion, and the Brown men took advantage of the opportunity to have some good batting practice, and soon had piled up a score that was almost impossible to overcome. The team, however, though outclassed in every way by Brown, fought gamely and succeeded in scoring seven runs before the last inning was over. The final score was fourteen to seven in favor of Brown.

On the ninth of April, we met the Boston College team here at Kingston. Our men showed a complete reversal of form from that exhibited in the Brown game, and played an excellent game in the field. Rhode Island's inability to hit Harrington when hits were needed proved to be their downfall, and Boston College took our ball away with them, a victor by a four to two score.

Following a week of stiff practice, the team met the Boston University team on College Field, easily defeating them by the tremendous score of eighteen to four.

It seemed that the team had at last struck its stride, and we went into the Worcester game confident of victory. Our boys played a hard and fast game, but Worcester played a phenomenal one, and when the last inning was over, they had scored five runs to our nothing.

The team now had a two week lay-off, and although they did not need the rest, it did them no harm; for when Connecticut was met on the seventh of May, we won out by a score of eleven to one. The Connecticut team gave a very poor exhibition of ball-playing and the game was an easy one for our boys.

On the twenty-first of May the team went to Amherst to play the Massachusetts "Aggies." The game was a fast, clean, exhibition of baseball up to the eighth inning, the score being tied at that point. In this inning Massachusetts bunched hits and the game ended with the score seven to five in their favor. Our men outbatted them, but could not get hits at the proper time.

New Hampshire came here on the twenty-first of May confidant of victory because of the easy time they had the previous year in Dover. They presented a neat appearance on the field and played a hard consistent game, but our men had improved their batting and won by a score of nine to three. Winning this game placed us on an even basis in athletic contests with New Hampshire for the year, and after winning the track meet on the following Monday, the contests stood three to two in our favor.

The Connecticut game on the fourth of June came in the midst of final examinations and a crippled team was sent to Storrs. On account of our easy victory earlier in the season we were over-confident, the result being a three to one victory for Connecticut. The defeat was somewhat of a surprise. The boys felt more, however, the ungentlemanly way they were treated while at Storrs and as a result all athletic relations between Connecticut and Rhode Island were severed.

The season, though not a very successful one, showed that the men worked hard and much credit is due to them, and also to Manager Sherman for arranging such a good schedule. It is safe to say that the men will profit by this year's experience and will not be so over-confident about easy games in the future.

INTER-CLASS MEET

Capt. Davis

On Friday afternoon, the thirteenth of May, 1910, the annual interclass track honors were bitterly contested. The greatest rivalry, however, was between 'twelve and 'thirteen. These two classes fought evenly all through the meet and it was not until the last one or two events were to be run that the winner could be picked. The close of the meet, however, saw 'twelve ahead with the small margin of seven points.

Interscholastic Meet

Saturday, May the fourteenth, nineteen hundred and ten, marked the day of the third annual interscholastic track and field meet. Eleven schools sent entries, but the real struggle for first place was between Hope Street and Technical High Schools, with Classical an easy third. By winning the meet, Technical obtained a doubly strong hold on the championship cup and was also awarded a handsome banner in the college colors.

Intercollegiate Meet

On May thirtieth, nineteen hundred and ten, New Hampshire State College came to Kingston to take part in a dual meet with R. I. S. C. This was Rhode Island's first attempt at track relations with any other college, but the result of the meet shows that she is as capable in track as in other branches of athletics.

RELAY RACES

On Saturday evening, January 28, 1911, the Relay Team consisting of Herbert Reiner, Leroy B. Newton, Myron A. Hawkins, and Henry N. Barlow ran against the superb M. A. C. Relay Team at the Armory Meet in Providence. The contest was close, our men losing by about twenty yards.

At the B. A. A. Meet in Boston, on February 11, 1911, the Relay Team ran again, this time against New Hampshire, winning by nearly a lap and bringing back four fine cups.

FOOTBALL

EARLY in the fall, before the opening of college, a call was sent out for football men to return. Six hard games were scheduled and much hard work and training was necessary. About eight or nine men responded to the call and put in an appearance about a week before school started. Signal practice started immediately, the men taking hold with a snap and vim that boded ill to our opponents. After the test of the old men and some new that had arrived, the work became more earnest, and when Sept. 24th arrived, the team was in fairly good shape to compete with M. A. C.

On Friday the 23rd the team left here for Amherst, arriving there in the evening. They were well entertained and given a good night's rest. Dawn broke cloudy, threatening rain, and sure enough at 2:00 P. M. it was raining hard. Nevertheless, when the teams lined up for the kick-off, there was a large crowd present. The whole game was played in a downpour of rain and on a field that would slide out from under your feet, making it almost impossible to get started. The teams were pretty evenly matched, R. I. making first down about six times, however, while M. A. C. could not make a first down once. At one time R. I. was within 10 yards of their goal line, but lost the ball on downs. M. A. C. was never dangerous, the ball being for the most part in their territory. In the eyes of the referee, R. I. was afflicted with too much eagerness, which resulted in many curious penalties. Even though the game ended with no score, the team felt that they outplayed M. A. C. and were in good shape to go to Medford the following Saturday.

There is no doubt that the Tufts men were big, and when R. I. lined up against them it was with the grim determination to hold them to as low a score as possible. Their shift formation puzzled our men at first and they went up the field almost at will.

However, they could not pass our five yard line. Every formation they tried was ripped to pieces at this point. The fighting spirit of our men was simply great. R. I. soon became aware of the fact that Tufts was weak on catching punts, and our game from then on was a punting one, Sully getting away with some long kicks. This was their downfall; for after regaining two punts in succession, R. I. had the ball on Tuft's fifteen yard line, from which point the delayed pass was worked for a touchdown. Sully missed the goal. The rest of the game was fought more evenly, and the whistle blew with R. I. five to nothing winners.

When R. I. went to Brown on the following Wednesday, the team was in great condition and meant to duplicate its feat of the previous year. Brown, on the other hand, remembering the 'accident' of the year before, was resolved that this game would show us where we fitted. They started at our team with a rush, and in very short order had scored a touchdown, but failed to kick the goal. The pace they set was too fast for them to keep up, and after this score the game was even. In the third and fourth periods our team played them to a standstill, and it was a small fraction of a foot that prevented R. I. from scoring, when Sprackling in diving for the tackle just hit Doll's foot enough to trip him, thereby breaking up our one chance. The game ended with the score five to nothing in favor of Brown, but when our team left the field it was with a feeling that they had done well and a knowledge that Brown respected their staying power.

The St. Andrews game was very easy for R. I., resulting in a score of twenty-three to nothing, but the men did not feel so confident about Connecticut. Rumors were spread around that they had a surprise in store for us, so the team was coached to get them at the start. R. I. won, but the thirty-three to nothing score does not tell how gamely Connecticut fought.

Boston College cancelled their game on account of injuries and W. P. I. came to Kingston in their place. Our men expecting a hard, close game, were as much surprised as they, when the game finally ended 19 to 0 in our favor. Sully shone this day by his great running back of kick-offs, going through their entire team twice, behind perfect interference, for touchdowns. One was taken away from us, however, by the referee for stepping out of bounds.

The Saturday following came the big game with New Hampshire. They certainly had a husky team and gave the scrappiest game of the season. Again did Sullivan shine by making two of the prettiest drop kicks that have been seen in some time, one of them being made from the 40 yard line. Neither team could gain much on straight plays, though at one time R. I. pushed N. H. back to their one yard line, and at another time took the ball away from them on our own one yard line. The game was hard fought and interesting, and was not decided until the timer's whistle blew. New Hampshire had a fake kick that worked well, and more than once did they look dangerous.

This game finished the best football season the school has ever had, and the men who played on the team may look back and feel honored. Much credit is due Capt. Minor, Manager Whalen, and Coach Cobb, for it was greatly through their efforts that the season was successful. The team as a whole is to be congratulated for its do or die spirit and its punctual attendance at practice.

BASKETBALL has always been the strongest branch of athletics at Rhode Island State College. That is, although the school has been well represented in the other sports, in this sport it has been able to cope more successfully with larger institutions, being defeated on the home court only once since the inauguration of the game here. Since then we have defeated teams representing such institutions as Mass. Inst. of Technology, University of Maine, Trinity, New Hampshire State College, Worcester Polytechnic, Massachusetts Agricultural College, and many others.

The schedule this year was a good one and contained games with some of the leading colleges in this sport, but as the 'varsity team remained intact from the year previous, success was expected. The students and admirers of the team were not disappointed.

After a couple of weeks of consistent practice the 'varsity met the Yale Rovers in the first game of the season. Although they had a team of large men, our boys were too fast for them and easily won by a score of forty-six to thirteen. This was good practice for our contest with Brown.

On January seventh, the team went to Providence to meet Brown in the Lyman Gymnasium. The boys played the hardest kind of a game and at the end of the first half were behind only two points. The second half was even faster than the first, Brown putting in fresh men continually. Towards the end of the game they spurted and took the game away from us by a score of eighteen to twelve.

On Thursday, the twelfth, the New Hampshire team came here to play. Everybody looked forward to a hard, close game because New Hampshire gave Brown almost as hard a game as we did. New Hampshire played well, but Rhode Island played better and won by a score of thirty-nine to nineteen.

The result of our game with Williams was looked forward to with great interest, as this was our first meeting with them in any sort; besides they had not been defeated for three years. Our boys put up a great exhibition and at the end of the first half were in the lead by a score of thirteen to twelve. The teams were within one point of each other until about four minutes from the end of the game, when the Williams five spurted and scored four baskets. On account of the long trip to Williamstown, our boys were unable to increase their pace and were defeated twenty-six to seventeen.

The Orist

Our next game was with Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N. Y. Although the trip to Troy was long, it was very pleasant, and the team went on the floor in fine condition. They proved this by winning in one of the fastest games of the season. The game, although rough, was very interesting, Sully starring with sixteen points to his credit. The final score was twenty-two to fifteen.

The team were now working well together and they made the season a successful one by winning from Boston College on the twenty-seventh and from New Hampshire State on the twenty-eighth. The Boston College game proved easy, the score running up to thirty-three against thirteen for Boston. It was a different proposition, however, in Durham. New Hampshire fought hard, but Rhode Island won, during great excitement, by the close score of twenty-one to nineteen.

While the varsity was at Durham, the second team won a game here from a team representing the St. James A. A. of Woonsocket, by a score of fourteen to eight.

The team was traveling fast at this time and if they could have met Wesleyan the Saturday following the New Hampshire game, it is very probable that they would have held Wesleyan to a close score. As it was, the Military Ball and mid-year final examinations coming at this time necessitated a lay-off of three weeks. This rest, coming just before the last game, quelled all interest in Basketball and the result was that the team went to Middletown in very poor condition. Despite several necessary changes in the line-up—a circumstance that made team work almost impossible—the boys played with true R. I. spirit, never quitting until the last bell was rung. Wesleyan had a very fast team and they took the game easily by a score of forty-eight to nineteen.

TENNIS

The Tennis Association, one of the latest additions to our athletic organization, is composed of the faculty, the student body, and members of the Experiment Station Staff. Although independent of the Athletic Association it is well organized and has accomplished much towards establishing relations between other institutions and Rhode Island.

The first effort along this line resulted in a tennis tournament with Connecticut State College at Storrs, June fourth, nineteen hundred and ten. Although defeated by a score of five to one, the players gained a great deal of experience which will be of value this spring.

The men who represented R. I. were C. B. Edwards, J. L. Hardy, F. W. Jones, and R. H. Carpenter.

Girls' Basketball

As usual there have not been enough basketball players among the girls this year to form two whole teams. Although the number of girls has increased from year to year, the number required for basketball has also increased. Several years ago the game was played with five on a side. This number has increased until at present eight are required. In spite of such difficulties, however, two games were played with Pembroke and were lost with a score of 21 to 8 and 26 to 2, thru lack of practice and thru nervousness.

The first game of the season was played between the Blondes and Brunettes, and resulted in a score of 9 to 4 in favor of the Blondes. Later a game was played by the Freshmen and Sophomores, the final score being 3 to 2 in favor of the Freshmen. All points were made on fouls, both teams playing exceedingly well.
