On the twenty-ninth of April, nineteen hundred and ten, in East Hall, Rhode Island State College engaged in its first inter-collegiate debate. The question was, "Resolved:—That the United States should subsidize the American Merchant Marine." Robert W. Cummings and Warren Henry, both '10, upheld the affirmative for Rhode Island, while Jay M. Heald and Bernard Ostrolenk defended the negative for the visitors, Massachusetts Agricultural College. The judges were Rev. James H. Smith and Prof. W. R. Jones of Wakefield, and Mr. J. L. Peacock of Westerly. W. T. Neal, president of the Debating Club, presided.

The visitors won easily, thereby showing that more interest should be taken in the practice debates at this college. The victory of Massachusetts was due largely to the superior team work and experience of their men. This spring a similar debate will be held at Amherst and Rhode Island should produce a winning team.
