Dear Colleague:

As the Director of the Institute of Museum Services, I invite you to take the next hour to participate in a very important project by completing the enclosed survey.

This survey is a vital part of the first comprehensive, independent evaluation of the General Operating Support (GOS) grant program; it is being conducted for IMS by Reed Public Policy. The results of this survey will help IMS more effectively serve museums of all sizes and disciplines in all parts of our country.

Your response is important because you have been specifically selected to represent hundreds of other museums and museum professionals. I hope you will give us your candid opinion as we are undertaking this evaluation to learn how we can improve our service to you. We would appreciate hearing from you (even if you have never heard of IMS, GOS, or think we fail to meet your needs!)

Your response to the survey questions will be confidential. Only the staff of Reed Public Policy will see the completed questionnaire. No one at IMS will know your individual responses. Your selection for and participation in this survey will have no effect on any pending or future grant award.

Thank you for participating in this important project to improve our support for museums. If you have questions about the Institute of Museum Services, please call us at 202/786-0539.

Yours truly,

Daphne Wood Murray
Director
SPECIAL TO IMPROVE SUPPORT FOR MUSEUMS

Dear Museum Director:

The Institute of Museum Services, a U.S. government agency, has hired Reed Public Policy, an independent research company, to conduct this survey to evaluate the General Operating Support program (GOS). GOS is a government program that makes grants to museums.

Response to this survey is voluntary, but it is very important that you respond. Your museum has been selected to represent hundreds of others of similar size and discipline. Whether our findings will be accurate enough to improve government support for museums depends on each museum director who receives this survey. Our tests indicate that it takes a museum director less than one hour on average to complete this survey.

Your answers will be used for a statistical analysis to determine how well GOS is serving museums and how it can be improved, and to measure the benefits of continued government support for museums.

Your answers to this survey are confidential. Only Reed Public Policy's researchers and key entry operators will see how you answered any question. Reed Public Policy is contractually prohibited from telling the government or anyone else how any individual or museum answered any question. We will only notify the Institute of Museum Services whether you responded to this survey, not how you answered. When the study is finished, we will destroy all questionnaires.

Thank you for your time. Please return this survey in the enclosed self-addressed stamped envelope before XXX XX, 1991. If you have any questions about this survey, please call me collect at (202) 466-0566.

Yours truly,

David S. Reed

GOS QUESTIONNAIRE
FINAL TEXT VERSION
Do you expect your museum will apply for a GOS grant at the next deadline (November 1991)?

IF YOU ANSWERED "YES", THEN SKIP THE REST OF THIS SECTION AND GO DIRECTLY TO SECTION B ON PAGE 6.

Here is a list of statements about why a museum would not apply for a GOS grant. Check "NOT A REASON" if the statement is not true for your museum, or if you don't know, or if it just doesn't affect your museum's decision whether to apply to GOS. Otherwise, check the box that shows how important the reason is to your museum.

We've never heard of GOS.

Even if we received a grant, the regulations and paperwork for using the grant money are too much trouble.

We object to what the GOS program does, so we don’t want to be associated with it.

SECTION B

Did your museum apply for a GOS grant in any year from 1985 through 1990?

IF YOU ANSWERED "NO", SKIP THE REST OF THIS SECTION AND GO DIRECTLY TO SECTION C ON PAGE 10.

Did your museum apply for a GOS grant in any year before 1985?

Some museums use their completed GOS applications for other purposes, in addition to applying for GOS grants. For each purpose listed below, indicate whether your museum has NEVER USED its GOS application for that purpose in the past five years, or if your museum did use its GOS application for that purpose, how useful it was.

Representing your museum to other potential funding sources

Representing your museum to its governing authority (Board of Directors, etc.).

Other (optional). Please describe:
Some people say that applying for a GOS grant is useful to museums as an evaluation method, whether or not the museum receives a grant. Please rate the following aspects of the GOS process, based on their usefulness to your museum as evaluation methods.

Self-evaluation by your museum in the process of writing its GOS application.

Evaluation of your museum through the comments and scores that field reviewers gave its GOS application.

Finding out how your museum compares to others of similar size and discipline throughout the nation.

Did writing your museum's GOS application take the place of any self-evaluation activities your museum would otherwise perform?

Did the GOS application take the place of any documents your museum would otherwise produce to describe itself?

Did field reviewers' comments and scores on your museum's GOS application take the place of any outside evaluation that your museum would otherwise solicit?

Is there anything else your museum would probably do if it didn't apply to GOS, that it does not do currently?

If you answered "YES", then please write in the activity here:

______________________________

How many work hours did it take to prepare your museum's most recent GOS application? Please fill in the total work hours by professional and clerical personnel for each step listed below. Include museum employees, volunteers, consultants, and any others. The total work hours for all steps listed below should equal the total effort your museum spent on its most recent GOS application.

Studying the directions, consulting with IMS staff, and other steps to understand the GOS program and how to apply

WRITE THE NUMBER OF WORK HOURS

--- professional

--- clerical
Conducting studies, surveys and meetings, reviewing records, and other activities specifically to obtain information for the GOS application

Writing, editing, and assembling the GOS application, after you had obtained all the required information

Please refer to your museum's most recent GOS application, and answer the following questions about the various parts of the application form:

Face Sheet (including part L. Assurances)

Were the instructions clear and understandable?

Statement of Purpose

Were the instructions clear and understandable?

Did the way the questions were stated, and the way you were asked to answer them (short answers, space for written responses, etc.), allow you to accurately describe your museum?

Application Narrative, including the questions on Audience, Collections, Collections Care and Management, Exhibits, Education and Research, Staff and Physical Facilities, Support, Administration and Long Range Plans

Were the instructions clear and understandable?

Did the way the questions were stated, and the way you were asked to answer them (short answers, space for written responses, etc.), allow you to accurately describe your museum?

Financial Statements (Forms A and B, and Forms C and D where applicable)

Were the instructions clear and understandable?

Did the way the questions were stated, and the way you were asked to answer them (categories of income and expenses, etc.), allow you to accurately describe your museum?
Did your museum contact IMS staff by telephone or in person for help preparing your most recent GOS application, and if so, how useful was their help?

Did IMS' decision whether to fund or not fund your museum's most recent GOS application accurately reflect the quality of your museum?

Regarding the comments that the field reviewers made on your museum's most recent GOS application:

Did the comments adequately explain why the field reviewers assigned the scores you received?

Did the comments indicate that the reviewers understand museums that are like yours in size and discipline?

Did the comments indicate that the reviewers understood your application?

Were the comments useful for improving your museum's GOS applications in the future?

Were the comments useful for improving your museum?

Regarding the scores that the field reviewers assigned to your museum's most recent GOS application:

Did the scores indicate that the reviewers understand museums that are like yours in size and discipline?

Did the scores indicate that the reviewers understood your application?

Were the scores useful for improving your museum's GOS applications in the future?

Were the scores useful for improving your museum?
Did your museum receive a GOS grant in any year from 1985 through 1990?

IF YOU ANSWERED "NO", SKIP THE REST OF THIS SECTION AND GO DIRECTLY TO SECTION D ON PAGE 11.

Did receiving a GOS grant produce publicity that was useful to your museum.

Did the fact that your museum received a GOS grant convince another source of funding or non-cash support that it is a quality museum, which helped cause the other source to contribute to your museum?

We have asked you to rate the value to your museum of several benefits of GOS other than the GOS grant money. For comparison, how valuable has the GOS grant money been for your museum?

Some museums find that certain features of the GOS program prevent them from using their GOS grant money most effectively. Please tell us whether each of the following features of GOS has been a problem for your museum.

- Not enough time from when the grant is awarded until all money must be spent
- Too much record-keeping required on how the grant money is used.
- Restrictions on for what the grant money may and may not be spent.

THANK YOU. PLEASE SKIP SECTION C, AND GO DIRECTLY TO SECTION D ON PAGE 11.

SECTION C

Since your museum has not applied for a GOS grant recently, please tell us whether your museum has performed any of the following activities, which are similar to the GOS process, within the past five years:

Has your museum conducted a self-evaluation of all its operations?
Has your museum produced a document that describes all its operations in a level of detail that would be of interest to museum professionals (do not include brochures and other documents designed for the general public).

Have your museum's operations been evaluated by museum professionals from outside your museum?

If you answered "YES", to any of the three questions above, then please write in the most important activity to which you were referring:

Comments from field reviewers on GOS applications

Other (optional). Please describe:

Has reading other museums’ GOS applications been useful to you as a source of information on how museums should be operated (as opposed to information on how to write a GOS application)?

The following questions refer to “GOS field reviewers.” GOS field reviewers are museum professionals who volunteer to read and evaluate museums’ applications for GOS grants. Scores from field reviewers are used in awarding GOS grants.

Do you expect to volunteer to serve as a GOS field reviewer next year?

IF YOU ANSWERED "YES", THEN SKIP THE REST OF THIS SECTION, AND GO DIRECTLY TO SECTION E ON PAGE 14.

Here is a list of statements about why someone would not volunteer to be a GOS field reviewer. Otherwise, check the box that shows how important the reason is to you.

Would any of the following changes cause you to volunteer to serve as a GOS field reviewer?

If serving as a field reviewer would help me learn more about how museums are selected for GOS grants.

If serving as a field reviewer would help me learn more about how museums should be operated.

If serving as a field reviewer had more prestige and professional recognition in the museum community.
If the field reviewer's work did not all occur in January.
