Miss Raffaele Saccoccia
One Dean Parkway
Cranston, Rhode Island

Dear Miss Saccoccia:

Thank you for writing me and for sending your most interesting resume.

As I am sure you know, finding an unsatisfying job in your field is often a difficult and time-consuming task. It is clear to me from your training that you will be looking hardest in the theater so that you can continue your acting. Your experiences at New York University and the contacts made there should certainly be pursued.

Unfortunately, my staff dealing with the arts area is very small, and no expansion of personnel is anticipated in the near future. But, if you feel that talking with my arts staff member would be of assistance to you, by all means feel free to do so. His name is Alexander D. Crazy, and he can be reached at Room 4228, Dirksen Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510. The phone number is 202 224-7666.

With warm regards,

Ever sincerely,

Claiborne Pell
